NEW BUILDING

In the tanker market, it was reported that an unknown owner ordered two firm 50k dwt MR tankers at STX, with both vessels to be delivered in 4Q 2022. In the gas carrier market, there were a number of orders this week all linked with the Shell charter deal. Pan Ocean announced ordering two firm 174k CBM LNG Carriers at Hyundai HI (Ulsan), with delivery of both vessels set for Q4 2024. The yard also revealed contracting two firm 174k CBM LNG Carriers for an unknown owner, with delivery of the first vessel expected within 1H 2025, and the second vessel in 3Q 2025. Hyundai Samho announced taking order for two firm 174k CBM LNG Carriers for an unknown owner, with delivery of the vessels also expected within 1H 2025 and 3Q 2025. In containers, COSCO Yangzhou disclosed orders for four firm 16,180 TEU container vessels from COSCO Shipping Lines, with delivery slated to take place from June 2025 through to December 2025. The yard also revealed contracting six firm 14,092 TEU boxships, again with COSCO Shipping Lines, with delivery of the vessels to begin in 1H 2024 and continue until September 2024. In general cargo, Volga Shipping ordered four firm 7.17k dwt General Cargo vessels at Okskaya Shipyard, with delivery to take place throughout 2022 and 2023. In the car carrier market, Wallenius Lines announced ordering two firm LNG dual-fuel 6,500 CEU PCC's at Yantai CIMC Raffles. The deal has two set of options and delivery of the firm vessels will be within 2023.

RECYCLING

Winding Down!

The summer holiday period has certainly been felt this week as the market has felt the quietest it has been all year with the lack of workable tonnage alarmingly low, with few sales to report. This is a trend that now looks set to continue and could result in one of the most inactive summers for the market in quite some time, with there still being no clear sign of where the flow of tonnage is going to come from due to the continuing firm freight markets. With Eid holidays taking place next week in Pakistan and Bangladesh, operations from these locations next week may slow. We again emphasise that there should not be too much of a price depreciation and feel these impressive levels look set to stay in Pakistan and Bangladesh, with demand still high locally and the world economy continues to recover after the Pandemic. This has meant India continues to lag some way behind its neighbouring counterparts, with price levels still in the mid-low 500's, although a rare unit for HKC recycling would be sure to catch their attention and cause an eager move. Much like the sub-continent, the rates from Turkey have made steady improvements over the last few weeks and non EU Recycling yards would be willing to indicate in the mid USD 300's for prompt units. With the EU facilities being a case-by-case basis, due to the limited number of yards (and whether such a plot is open at a specific time), pricing is still the highest we have seen for EU recycling with levels hovering around the high USD200's.
