NEW BUILDING

In tankers, the Yards long term existing customer clients of Samos Steamship have ordered two firm 115k dwt Aframax tankers at Sumitomo Shipyard. Both vessels are reportedly LNG ready and will be delivered in 2Q and 3Q of 2023.

In the dry bulk market, the biggest news came from Beihai shipyard, who announced contracting two firm plus two optional 210k dwt Newcastlemax's with Bocimar, with delivery of the firm vessels set for 2023. Hantong announced that Nisshin Shipping declared five optional 82k dwt Kamsarmaxes, bringing the series to ten overall, with delivery of the vessels expected within 2023. Shanhaiguan contracted two firm 85k dwt Kamsarmax with Huachen Leasing, set to be delivered within 2023. It was reported that Zhejiang Xinyihai Shipping agreed to two firm domestic trading 57k dwt Supramaxes at Haitong Offshore Engineering, with a further option to be declared and delivery of the firm vessels set for 1Q and 3Q 2023. Wisdom Marine revealed orders for two sets of 40k dwt Handysizes, ordering two firm 40k dwt Handysizes at Namura Shipbuilding, with delivery expected in 2023 and 2024. They also ordered two firm 40k dwt Handysizes at Imabari Shipbuilding, again delivery of each vessel is set for 2023 and 2024.

In gas carriers, just the one order as Samsung revealed contracting a 174k CBM LNG Carrier from an unknown owner, with delivery set for 2Q 2024.

In containers, GSI Nansha revealed taking order for a further two firm 16,000 TEU vessels from CMB Leasing for charter to MSC, with delivery of the vessels to take place within 2024, bring the series to eight overall. Yangzijiang announced contracting ten firm and five optional LNG dual-fuelled 7,000 TEU boxships with Seaspan Corporation, set for delivery from 4Q 2023 and will continue to run throughout 2024. Clients of Navios ordered four firm and two optional 5,300 TEU vessels at Zhoushan Changhong, with delivery of the firm vessels expected through 2H 2023 and 1H 2024.

RECYCLING

Living in the Sunshine!

Despite Summer holidays well into full swing and the whole Shipping industry slowly winding down for August, recycling prices roared northwards. This left the market firmly in the sunshine as India offered an impressive number to secure a scarce green recycling candidate. Many had predicted all India needed was a firm Green vessel for recycling to awaken them and compete with their neighbouring rivals and this sale has proven these predictions to be correct. Whether they stay here, or this was just an eager end recycler, time will tell, but it has definitely caught everyone's attention and means that Owners considering to sell their vessels under these more stringent and environmentally friendly ways are not missing out commercially.

The effect of this means that less tonnage is ending up on the Pakistani shores, as the Bangladeshi breakers take up the wavering units on offer. Long are the days of a full recycling beach where capacity was becoming an issue due to the large influx of tonnage, which means that many feel this market still has legs, with the hungry end buyers that have missed out on tonnage recently yet to satisfy their appetite. It is normally very difficult to predict the volatility of the local market due to their ever-fluctuating steel plate prices, but it is fair to say that the market looks set for a long period of stability, at least until the start of Q4, where it is anticipated a steady flow of units will return.
