NEW BUILDING

In dry bulk, Beihai announced contracting two 210k dwt Newcastlemax with an unknown owner, with delivery slated for 2023. CDB Leasing announced ordering nine firm 60k dwt Ultramax at New Dayang, with deliveries beginning in 2023 and running through to 2024. It has been reported that Reederie H. Vogemann have ordered a further two 40k dwt Handysize bulkers at Yangfan, extending their series to six overall, with delivery of the vessels expected in 2023. NS United Kaiun Kaisha announced ordering a firm battery hybrid fitted, LNG capable 5.5k dwt bulker at Tsuneishi Zosen, with delivery expected in February 2024.

In the gas carrier market, Samsung announced contracting four firm 174k CBM LNG Carriers for an unknown buyer, with deliveries set to run through 2H 2023 and into 1Q 2024.

In containers, Taizhou Taichuan announced taking order for a firm battery-hybrid 120 TEU boxship, with delivery expected in 2023.

In the car carrier market, it has been reported that SAIC Anji Logistics ordered two firm LNG dual-fuel 7,600 CEU PCTC's at Jiangnan, with the vessels to be delivered in March 2024 and September 2024.

RECYCLING

Clinging On!

Despite negative vibes in the market in relation to the recent collapse in iron ore rates, price levels from the Indian sub. Continent remain stable with no further potential falls, due mainly to the lack of available units being circulated.

The predictions are, that these rates will remain stable for the foreseeable future but there are at present, no logical reasons for the levels to improve, unless of course, tonnage availability remains low for several weeks as yards become free.

Various analysts are predicting stronger tanker rates during this forthcoming winter and therefore the expectation is there will be fewer tanker units coming for sale during this period. On top of the continuing strong dry bulk / container sectors, supply could well outstrip demand in the later part of the year.

+

Some congratulations are in order as the PHP Ship Breaking and Recycling Industries were given an award this week by the Ministry of Shipping in Bangladesh for Special Contribution on Green Ship Recycling. It is an incredible feat for the PHP family having single-handedly promote green ship recycling in Bangladesh despite much negative pressure from the environmental organisations. Some parties questioned whether such a yard could be successful in Bangladesh, but the PHO Group have certainly shown anything is possible with hard effort and endeavour.
