RECYCLING

Chattogram Closure?

The recycling market has taken a disastrous turn for the worse this week on the back of a distinct lack of faith in the industry in Bangladesh.

Price levels from the Bangladeshi domestic market collapsed this week as cheap imports of the domestic mills took stock of cheap finished products from China, contributing to a major correction for ship scrap. The import of finished scrap is now considerably lower than importing ships for recycling and hence, demand locally for ship scrap has drifted away. As such, the Bangladesh Ship Breaking Association issued an ultimatum for yards to immediately put a halt to the selling of their inventories to the steel mills in an effort to eradicate the current negative sentiment/pricing. Therefore, this market is to be considered closed for the time being as the local recyclers have stressed that they will not be offering for any tonnage for the time being.

Elsewhere, Indian and Pakistan buyers have demand but here to, price levels have reduced of recent times and with the monsoon rains now affecting the Indian sub-Continent, all markets look set to remain dormant for the next couple of months at least.

The general feeling is that there will be little demand or activity from all three destinations until after the monsoon season, when maybe, price levels are expected to rebound. As we approach halfway through the year, recycling activity has been limited, with 201 units of 4.6m GT reported sold for recycling, down 27% y-o-y on an annualised basis.
